James S. Reid Jr. as Honorary Trustee

CLEVELAND (Dec. 22, 2004) — The Cleveland Museum of Art (CMA) today announced the election of James Sims Reid, Jr., former chairman of the Standard Products Co., as an honorary trustee. Reid's wife, Donna, served as a voting member of the Museum's board from 1999-2003, and is now a life trustee.

"I am honored that James Reid would accept our invitation to serve as an honorary trustee," Museum Director Katharine Lee Reid (no relation) said. "His professional acumen and civic vision, along with his demonstrated concern for the life of the Museum will bode well for this institution in the years to come.

Mr. Reid also has been very active in the Cleveland community. He has been a trustee and an officer of the Musical Arts Association and is a member of the John Carroll University Board of Trustees, as well as many other organizations.

Reid graduated from University School in Cleveland and earned his bachelor's degree from Harvard College. He also is a graduate of the Harvard Law School.

The Cleveland Museum of Art is one of America's leading comprehensive museums. Its permanent collection is world renowned for its quality and breadth, spanning 6,000 years. The museum is a significant international forum for exhibitions, scholarship, and art acquisitions.
